COMPLAINT FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF, No. M 410: (Second Cause of Action, para. II) "Plaintiffs are informed and believe, and on such ground allege, that unless restrained from doing so, Defendant will at once proceed to remove and displace the said sand in accordance with the said City Council's permission; that, if said sand is displaced and removed in the manner hereinabove described, Plaintiffs and the citizens and residents of the City of Carmel will be irreparably injured and damaged and will be without an adequate remedy at law by reason of the aforesaid injury to their property interests in said City beach."

Editor's Window

Let us put our problems in perspective, for the world is almost exclusively occupied by persons of good intentions who have poor vision.

Five problems confront Carmel at the moment. Their focus is in our local government, and they are illuminated by its powers, legitimately derived, to resolve, disperse or reject them. Let us, therefore, not lose the consciousness of why the powers are given, and how they are expected to be exercised; for the nature of the problems might very well confound our good sense.

Let us contemplate theaters, veterinarians, gas stations, mechanics and a lady I know who lives alone. Each instance is provocative. Each instance, in one aspect or another, appears to challenge and distress the written law to which we, at one time or another, have subscribed.

Now we may fairly find that in each instance the law interposes. So we say that the law must be right. Without examination, we say that the law, of itself, rather than man's need of the law, is the function which compels our judgment.

Beer, Broadway For Studio Theatre

Determining to their absolute satisfaction that the Studio Theatre, once it had a license to serve beer with luncheon meals, would not seek to combine entertainment with them, in contravention of a city ordinance prohibiting such admixture, the city council Tuesday voted merely to take notice of the application of the owners for an on-sale beer license.

Assured by co-owner Royden Martin that an interval of at least four hours would separate the consumption of beer from the consumption of evening drama, and that the two functions — food and theater — would never the twain meet, the council let the matter rest, leaving to the board of adjustments the problem of amending the use permit for the theater to arrange for such assurances to become binding obligations. That matter will be heard before the board on 24 October, at a public hearing.

The council also instructed, somewhat vehemently, city attorney John Morse to defend it, and the city, in the injunctive proceedings filed by Councilman Francis and Elaine Whitaker last week in the sand castle contest over the request of William Crawford for permission to rearrange a sand dune at the north end of the beach. Crawford's purpose was to deny refuge to the illegitimately-inclined, and to secure a better vista from his property. Whitaker, equally ardent in purpose, sought to prevent the destruction of principle

K. O. Polio Drive Plans Phase Two

The steering committee for the K. O. Polio campaign met recently to map plans for the next Sabin Sunday, when Type II vaccine will be given.

"We hope to have an even greater turn-out than the fine 81 per cent showing on 23 September," says Dr. Joseph Turner, chairman of the committee. "It must be brought to the attention of everyone who had their vaccine on the first Sabin Sunday that it is equally important that they have immunization against Type II polio, which will be given at the same clinics on 4 November."

Mrs. Thomson Hudson, chairman of volunteers for Monterey County, has already met with area chairmen in certain localities. "There is no way to express adequately the debt the county owes to the volunteers from every walk of life who made the first Sabin Sunday successful," says Mrs. Hudson. "It was the greatest display of teamwork and personal sacrifice the county has ever seen."

WET CANDLESTICK PARK PREDICTED

This autumn's first rainstorm stole quietly into Carmel yesterday mixing sunshine with showers. High temperatures prevailed throughout a sultry night. Today brought more showers, raising total storm precipitation to five one-hundredths of an inch, and a gusty wind veering south to southwest at a velocity of 12-14 knots.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts no let-up in these conditions.

Oh, well! The Giants will show the Yankees that it can rain in California, too.

The n. y. Times — We welcome the august new york Times to the sphere of western journalism. Maybe. Much of the paper, edited in new york, is sent west over direct wire to automatic typesetting machines in San Francisco. A technological triumph. Perhaps.

We wonder, however, if the following story, repeated precisely as it appeared in the 9 October issue of the paper is a scientific or journalistic triumph:

Tax Vote Set

The Board of Education last night instructed the administration to bring in a resolution setting an election on continuation of the 50c override tax for five years, for 19 February, 1963.

They also looked deliberately at the administration's projection of the 1963-64 and 1964-65 budgets; found them shy of sufficient revenue for 1963-64 by $50,392 and for 1964-65 by $21,514, even though the 50c override were applied; listened to member Richard Snyder pick away fruitlessly at transportation costs and the dependability of long-term projections—"It always turns out that there is a greater problem than anticipated at first"—and stared with distaste at some of the suggestions of Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield for cutting the preliminary budgets.

Some of the proposals seemed economically attractive but repugnant in principle: combining some classes at River and Woods Schools could eliminate two teachers and save $12,000. But the student-teacher ratio would thereupon exceed the standards which the board seems to feel are desirable; they might approach 32 pupils per teacher in one of the combined grades, exceeding the standard of 27 recommended by Superintendent Stuart Mitchell.

INSIDE PEOPLE . . . .

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

LYNN HODGES

MOVING along on good saddle leather supported beneath by a good horse, you acquire a perspective on familiar surroundings that doesn't come any other way. It's quieter up there somehow. The squirrels, the deer, the birds go about their business in plain view without a second glance at you, since you're four-footed now, not two. You can see farther—over the next rise in the path, around the curve of the beach, ahead to where the thread of fog meets the needle of sunlight among the trees.

It's this kind of merchandise, this peace, this repose of spirit and regeneration of mind, that Lynn Hodges has been selling in Carmel for 40 years. And though he's retiring this fall, he's not closing shop without making sure that horseback riding, a stock in trade in this town since Carmel began (and before, too, of course), will continue to thrive in competent hands.

In fact, Lynn is not closing shop at all. The Mission Ranch Stables, which he and his wife, Rose, have operated since the mid-40's on 6.6 acres of the old Martin ranch tract behind Carmel Mission Basilica, has been leased to Lee Baker of Carmel Valley, who will, he (Baker) says, not only continue to rent horses to riders, but will add a few new features. But more of this later.

Lynn Hodges is a plain-spoken, soft-spoken, blue-eyed, balding man deeply tanned to the hatbrim but not beyond. He is a boot-wearing, plaid-shirted, smiling man, stocky but light-footed, who takes quiet pride in his horses, the fact that he's been in business 40 years without a single serious accident, and the truth that in this same span of time he's not been put out-of-pocket any more than $200 in bad debts by his thousands of patrons over the years.

It's a fine record to look back on upon retirement, especially when we recall that out of the Hodges stables have come at least a handful of celebrated Thoroughbreds and Quarter Horses.

One Hodges horse, Terry Hill, set a track record at Bay Meadows that stood for ten years, winning four out of seven races and climaxing his career at Tanforan and Santa Anita, where he beat the well-known Malicious three times in the 40's. And the Hodges mare, Dora Mired, was steeple - chase champion of California, taking the Masten Memorial trophy. In more recent years Oro, a Quarter Horse, won on tracks throughout the state. Lynn, though he has now gone out of the breeding business, still has a few racing Quarter Horses among the 30 animals now kept at the stables.

Horse shows over the years have also been victorious fields of battle for Lynn's horses.

Lynn comes originally from Beaver City, Utah, where his family operated a large cattle ranch. Although he grew up with a horse under him, assisting his father's Durham-raising operation, he enrolled in arts and sciences at the University of Utah, planning to become a teacher. (He won his letter there in track; name's still listed there, among U of U's past athletes.)

But the same lure of the range that traditionally motivates all western heroes, got to Lynn in the end, and after college he went to Idaho and leased a couple of ranches where he raised cattle and sheep quite successfully for several years.

After World War I, during which Lynn served in the Navy, he stopped in Carmel to visit the Stoney family, his cousins, and shortly thereafter moved here himself.

There was already one rental stable when he came to town, that of Grace McConnell who had kept a half-dozen horses in the downtown area. Seeing the need for more of this type of business, Lynn opened his own small stable at San Carlos and Ocean, site of the present Knapp Mill. From 1924, for some 20 years, Lynn kept at least 50 horses and at one time had 100. (Hay was $12 a ton then; it's now $32.)

Then things grew crowded on Ocean Avenue and the Hodgeses moved their business to its present site.

Literally thousands of youngsters have taken lessons, either English or Western, from Lynn during his career in Carmel. Among his own family non-riders are nonexistent, even among the grandchildren which now number six. Lynn's son, Max, now operates the earth-moving and supply business, which Lynn founded several years ago in conjunction with the stables. A daughter, Jacqueline, (Mrs. Dean Jensen), lives in El Cerrito. Two other daughters of Lynn and Rose, Donna (Mrs. Robert Smith) and Harvya (Mrs. George Saxton) are residents of Scottsdale.

Lee Baker, the man who will carry on Lynn's traditions including the lessons, has been a Peninsula resident since 1948 when he came here from Oregon. A new feature of the business under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Baker will be steer roping and perhaps later calf roping in the arena, which they hope later to equip with lights for night activities.

English lessons, both single and group, will be taught by Don Warner, who formerly was associated with the Dick Collins stable in Pebble Beach.

But a tradition dies hard in Carmel, particularly when it's centered around personalities, and for those to whom the sight of Lynn and Rose setting out by horseback from the Mission stables for a ride along the Carmel River is familiar, we hasten to add they are keeping their personal horses at the stable.

The program for retirement, Lynn says, includes lots of riding, and fishing, and more riding.

WIN THIS DOLL HOUSE

Come To The Carnival

Tourists in town tomorrow afternoon may think Carmel is uniquely celebrating Columbus Day when they are stopped on Ocean Avenue by dozens of costumed paraders or see the same mad crew swarming all over Devendorf Plaza.

It won't be long, though, before the visitors find out what is really happening. They will learn that the gaily caparizoned caperers are young teenagers advertising the annual Carmel High School Scholarship carnival on Saturday. Further inquiries will inform them that the carnival, with a Mardi Gras theme this year, will raise money to send deserving members of the Class of 1963 to college next fall.

"Come to the Carnival" will be the cry tourists and townspeople will hear tomorrow, starting at 2:35 p.m., and the Carmel High School Girls' League and P-TA unit, sponsors of the carnival, hope everyone will accept the invitation and on Saturday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. help raise more than the $4,200 which aided 12 members of the Class of '62 to go to college a few weeks ago.

In an Ocean Avenue shop window, this week, has been displayed the doll house which will be awarded to a lucky carnival ticket holder.

A new game at this year's carnival will be the Cake Walk, a musical march inside an imaginary cake cut into numbered wedges. When the music stops, the person standing on the lucky wedge will win a cake. Everyone else will win a consolation prize.

Planned as an event the whole family can enjoy, in addition to numerous games of skill for all ages and booths with merchandise, ranging from handmade Christmas gifts through produce from Carmel Valley ranches and bargains for gardeners to pictures painted by local artists, the carnival also offers food.

This year the P-TA will serve cake, coffee, and milk in the cafeteria, also tempt the hungry to taste hot chili and coffee sold across the counter of a booth. Hot dogs and soft drinks will be obtainable at student concessions.

And there will be the annual carnival auction. Bidding promises to be high for the boat and car which are among the numbers of varied items which will be put on the auctioneer's block during the day.

Ruling over the carnival will be Queen Sandee Gimbel and King Greg Scheid. They were crowned last Saturday night at the pre-carnival dance and fashion show at the high school.

Community Hospital Raises Rates

Monterey Peninsula's new Community Hospital at the top of Carmel Hill is featured in the October issue of Architectural Forum magazine.

The article is by Donald Canty and is illustrated with eight photographs by Ron Partridge and a detailed layout. In his story, Mr. Canty praises the architecture and 22-acre setting of the new hospital.

Starting 1 October, the 150 employees of the hospital are receiving higher salaries, from 5 to 12 per cent, Administrator E. Tonkin announces. The increase in wages will enable the hospital to retain and recruit qualified staff members, he emphasizes.

However, the salary changes necessitate a raise in daily room rates, he adds, but the total daily hospital cost to patients will still remain lower than any other hospital in this county, except Monterey County Hospital in Salinas.

The new room rates are $2 a day more than those charged since the hospital opened, Mr. Tonkin states. The new prices, effective 1 October, are $25 for a patio room, $27 for a suite, and $29 for a balcony room.

Although all rooms in the 100-bed hospital are private, half are available at ward rates and are consequently covered by most hospital insurance policies, Mr. Tonkin stresses.

Dr. Schallert Visiting Here

Dr. Paul Schallert, of Alta Monte Springs, Florida, is a houseguest of his daughter, Mrs. Richard Lofton. A retired physician, with an interest in botany, Dr. Schallert has for the past 10 or 15 years been studying lichens and mosses, which he collects wherever he goes. (He discovered, for instance, some 100 species on an expedition into Rocky Creek Canyon on Monday.)

Dr Schallert arrived in Carmel on Saturday and plans to stay about two weeks. Mrs. Schallert remained at their Florida home.

KLAUMANN FOR SHERIFF

There are few, if any, political offices regarding which this paper is prepared to offer an instantaneous endorsement.

There are some for which we have hopeful regard, for a particular candidate. But we want to hear and see more, our sympathies and instinctive enthusiasms notwithstanding.

The case of Clyde Klaumann is altogether different. We have known from the moment that Clyde announced his candidacy where we would stand. For Klaumann, and without reservation or hesitation.

We believe that we are in a particularly privileged and authoritative position to endorse his candidacy. We have worked with Clyde for six years, in intimate, critical and highly objective relationship. Our knowledge of Clyde is, in a word, unique. It is not a matter of opinion, but one of precise, scrupulous and knowledgable familiarity with his abilities.

He has the potentialities of being the greatest sheriff that Monterey County has ever had.

Upon unimpassioned examination, a candidate for sheriff must first present himself as an administrator. He does not run on a platform of how many arrests he will make, or has made; not if he is going to buy any conscientious vote.

The reason is simple. Examine his duties. He is the county's jailor. He is responsible for the bailiffs of all of the courts, municipal and superior. He handles all of the warrants and services in civil matters. And while he does attend to law enforcement in the unincorporated areas, he is, nevertheless, not so much a law enforcement officer as he is a law administration officer.

Clyde has done a superb job on both counts, in a community which is fussy, demanding and altogether particular. He has demonstrated his law-enforcement capacities; but his ability as an administrator shines through most compellingly, particularly when compared with that of his opponent, Jack Davenport, who can demonstrate practically nothing on the record in the way of qualification for this particular office.

Clyde's success with a particularly sticky juvenile problem gained him renown throughout the state. His intelligent enforcement of traffic regulations in Carmel has distinguished him. He has gained, as a matter of fact, great distinction for compassionate, yet sincere and conscientious law enforcement.

But this is not, of itself, a suitable qualification for the office he seeks. To his certain credit, he has run a first-class police department. He has handled manpower well, and has earned the esteem of his officers—something not to be commanded or solicited. He has proven conscientious and diligent in budgetary matters and in his relationship with the city council. He has proven, in a word, what his opponent has only been able to claim to be able to do. Given the choice, I will unhesitatingly go with the man who has demonstrated his ability in preference to the man who can only claim to have it.

I have no particular quarrel with Jack Davenport. I believe him to be sincere, earnest, and filled with commendable ambition. Furthermore, he was an officer in a department—the California Highway Patrol—which has an enviable reputation for employing personnel of excellent calibre. But I cannot escape the observation that Davenport, in fourteen years, did not progress. He should have gained rank, in the natural course of such a prolonged period; but he did not. Klaumann, on the other hand, advanced from patrolman in Monterey to Chief of Police in Carmel, a city not indifferent to the qualifications of its civil servants, and one well able to command the best.

This is one instance — perhaps the only one in the entire campaign, from governor on down — where I will stand on the record. And the record compellingly indicates Klaumann for Sheriff.

$100 DINNERS

At this time of year the $100 per plate dinners are fund-gathering expedients much respected by the political parties. They feature a fired-up speaker and rock Cornish game hen, and they go like this: The invocation. the pledge of allegiance. The eyes peering under lowered eyebrows. The silent standing, all solemn. The respectful silence. The sudden laughter. The drinks. The hen. The salad. The speech, the inspiration, determination, valor and enthusiasm. The $100.

UDALL TO SPEAK

At the home of Dr. and Mrs. Scott A. Heath, Secretary of the Interior Udall will speak Sunday on conservation and the coast master plan. A buffet supper will be served. The occasion is a private one, for the benefit of the campaign fund of the Democratic party.

COFFEE FOR CANDIDATE

Persons who are assisting Miss Verna White, candidate for Monterey County superintendent of schools, with her current campaign, also other interested persons, will gather for coffee at 10 a.m. on 24 October in the home of Mrs. William Shanner on Lazarro Drive, Hatton Fields Mesa.

Miss White, now assistant superintendent of Monterey County schools, is a local resident.

KLAUMANN DINNER SUNDAY

Residents from all sections of Monterey County will come to Carmel Sunday for a Clyde Klaumann testimonial dinner, honoring Carmel's police chief who is a Monterey County Sheriff candidate.

One group of supporters from San Ardo will arrive in a 20-car caravan. Sheriff Victor Tibbs, who has indicated he would like to have Mr. Klaumann succeed him, will also be a guest of honor at the chuckwagon dinner.

The police chiefs of 14 county communities, also other law enforcement officials, will be among the estimated 500 persons planning to attend the Klaumann dinner in Carmel.

The affair will start at 4 p.m. in the American Legion Hall on Dolores Street south of Eighth Avenue. Tickets are on sale at the Klaumann for Sheriff campaign headquarters on Sixth Street next to the firehouse.

POPULATION: 1.21666 PER MINUTE

New Californians — transplants and homegrown — were created at a rate of better than one every minute of every hour of every day between mid-1961 and mid-1962.

The state's actual population gain for the year, according to a study in Wells Fargo Bank's current BUSINESS REVIEW, was 641,000.

This boils down to growth at rates of 53,417 a month, 1756 a day, 73 an hour, and, to be exact, 1.21666 a minute.

Transplants for the year totaled 363,000, arriving by land, sea, or air in clusters of just about a thousand a day. Local production, the excess of births over deaths, contributed 278,000 to the total. With things happening as fast as they are, California's population isn't easy to count. Wells Fargo Bank, however, says it was 17,094,000 on 1 July.

That was at twelve noon, precisely.

SAVE THE DUNES

Forty-one years ago this week, Carmel's board of trustees met in the city hall and gave first reading to "a lengthy resolution" setting 22 November, 1921, as the date for a bond election for the acquisition of the sand dune area at the foot of Ocean Avenue.

This action followed a campaign to save the beach land from private development.

The campaign to save the dunes, long discussed, had received a necessary impetus from the Carmel Development Company which offered the 10 acres of beach frontage to the city, plus Block 69 (bounded by Ocean, Sixth, Mission and Junipero) to the city for $15,000 at this time.

"The low figure at which this real property is offered has been made possible by the efforts of J. F. Devendorf, who for years has desired the people of this city to have this property. Real estate agents have estimated the value of the dunes, alone, to be in the neighborhood of $40,000," the Pine Cone stated in its 29 September, 1921, issue, added that the petitions which had started circulating the week before were being signed by so many residents "it would appear that the local voters are practically unanimous for this proposition."

At the next meeting of the city's board of trustees on 6 October, the petition, signed by 266 property owners and requesting that a bond election be held to purchase the dunes and other property, was presented to the board of trustees. This body immediately passed "a preliminary resolution looking forward to that end," according to the Pine Cone report. The trustees also appointed Argyll Campbell to the position of city attorney at the same meeting.

Early the next week, in an adjourned session, the trustees gave first reading to "a lengthy resolution" setting the bond election for the acquisition of the dunes for 22 November.

The polling place was designated as the city hall in the Wilson building at the northwest corner of Ocean and Dolores. Charles O. Goold was appointed inspector; Clara B. Leidig, Katherine J. Overstreet, judges; Lavinia Lichtenthaler and Herbert Heron, clerks.

A two-thirds vote in favor of increasing the city's bonded indebtedness by $15,000 to purchase the land "for park and playground purposes would be necessary to carry the proposition."

Editor William Overstreet in the issue of the Pine Cone immediately before the election urged voters to keep Carmel's waterfront "unimpaired for the benefit of the people . . . not allow it to be converted into a cheap imitation of Coney Island."

He continued by declaring, "Carmel has grown more rapidly, proportionately, than any city in the state within the past few years. The type of people settling here is most desirable. Those who have made their homes in Carmel have been drawn here because of its climate, its beauty, and the character of the residents. Once destroy Carmel's beauty, or mar it with the introduction of tawdry, blatant beach concessions, the charm of the place will vanish, never to return.

"Carmel's beauty and Carmel's prosperity are inseparably linked together.

"They must stand or fall together."

The following Tuesday Carmelites voted. The dunes were saved by 187 Yes to 41 No votes.

"Balloting was lively all day," Mr. Overstreet reported.

The trustees canvassed the vote the next week, passed a resolution setting forth the result and declaring the passage of the dunes purchase proposition.

So it was that Carmel's Christmas stocking in 1921 contained the city's first greenbelt acquisition. It was a gift from 187 citizens possessing vision and public spirit.

At the first meeting of the board of trustees in 1922, the sand dune bonds were sold to a San Francisco bond company with the city to receive a premium of $614.

The city trustees, the dunes saved, next turned their attention to complaints about "the imminent destruction of the pine trees by insects," but took no action.

This is convenient, but illogical.

In the instances of the veterinary, the mechanic, and the theater, we say: they cannot practice or operate. And in so doing, we reject them as a segment of our social, economic and cultural complex. Because they apparently offend something known as a "residential community."

We do not stop to think that our rather contemptuous rejection leaves us unhealthily over-bred, so to speak. When we get quite through with this sort of refinement we may find ourselves a precious little society of inns and gift shops, and amiable but insubstantial dreams centered on self-sustaining cottages. Stuff and nonsense.

We are today, a fairly well-balanced economic society—which can ill-afford to lose a veterinary, a plumber, a blacksmith, a mechanic, a gas station, or a theater, in support of a treacherous notion which has never had a foundation in fact—that we are antiseptically self-sufficient.

We need a solid, resilient and well-proportioned business community, one which is diversified, sympathetic and vigorously healthy.

When zoning laws or public welfare regulations make a theater economically implausible; when they make a veterinarian's services, or a first-rate mechanic's continued operations impossible; when they bring about enforced deterioration of service stations; when they compel a plumber's operations elsewhere; when, indeed, they frustrate convenient and clement residency for senior citizens, then the laws and the narrow devotion which supports them in their cold irrationality have become inhuman, and we find a coarse and discouraging interpretation given to the slogan, "this is a land of laws, not people." In such a construction lies humiliation. For this is a land of people. We are—or should be—served by, not servants of, the law.

In each instance I mention, now and presently, there is pending before our city government a matter which provokes some degree of conflict. Whether or not each is resolved in such a way as to preserve our integrity and secure our social and economic hardiness depends, quite simply, on whether we have the power to discern. And whether we care to.

Baird Cops Cup In Mercury Race

Doug Baird, youthful, enthusiastic and filled with the clever opportunism of the champion, last week end won the Race of the Champions in Santa Barbara.

Two firsts and a third cinched the laurels for Baird, who presently dominates Mercury class sailing by virtue of his national championship, gained recently at Stillwater Cove, and reasserted with this win, in a contest restricted to fleet champions, national champions and immediately past national champions.

The two-day event, encompassing three races, run alternately over Gold Cup and windward-leeward courses, was a tight and frustrating event for the five competitors. The Gold Cup course—windward leg, reach, run, windward leg and ending with a run to the finish—nearly confounded Baird. As it turned out, a combination of inspired judgment and taut sailing rescued him from defeat.

"I've never seen a sea like it," Baird said, a note of genuine dismay keying his words. "The wind was three knots, maybe less. And the sea motion — well, it was all chopped up, something like a sea after a hurricane. Water was chopping and washing back from the breakwater. After the first ten minutes I was last by 100 yards, and fading. We thrashed around, and I finally said, 'We'd better learn to sail these waters.'"

Baird was being plagued with the same thing confounding others: unfamiliarity with the local waters and winds.

"Well, there is supposed to be a set of about two knots north down there. I finally decided to tack out into the set, and found it was running the other way—south. It was luck, maybe; but I managed to hit the first marker ahead of everyone else as a result."

A champion is made of many things — guts, good boat, efficient sails, a crisp and perceptive reading of the sea and winds. And luck. Baird put them together in one ascendant maneuver. He came home unchallenged champion.

The Lively Arts

All The Way Home Opens At Circle

Brian Stock will portray Tennessee novelist James Agee as he was at the age of six when All The Way Home opens Friday at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. Brian, youngest son of MPC drama director Morgan Stock, is one of five young boys in the large cast of Tad Mosel's drama, which was adapted from an autobiographical novel by Agee. Other youthful performers are Brian's brother, Kevin Stock, Bill Faulkner, and Roger and Glenn Eddy, sons of another well-known local actor, Russell Eddy.

The leading role of Agee's mother has been assigned to Barbara Clarkson. The popular comedian, Dick Vreeland, has a major character role as a boisterous uncle, and Irving Rogers is cast as the boys' father.

All The Way Home captured the top awards of the 1961 season in New York for its unsentimental presentation of a moving subject. It deals with the continuing process of life through the birth and death of five generations. Members of the families involved are Bill Scholefield, Marge Hirschkind, Lucille Kiester, David Loring, Doris Shirek, Pop Smith, Lisa Treat, Hazel Wade and Kappa V. Belknap. John Harrison makes a brief appearance as a priest.

Mosel's play will run on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings through 18 November, under the direction of Frederick Rider.

MPC Film Series

Two films will be shown in the Monterey Peninsula College music hall tomorrow, as the second fall offering of the MPC Theatre Arts Group, according to evening division director Philip Chamberlin.

The first, a battered but complete print of The Circus, is probably the weakest of Charlie Chaplin's feature films, according to Chamberlin—"but it is still miles ahead of most comedies made today." It was produced in 1928.

Also showing will be Zero de Conduite, the poetic masterpiece by Jean Vigo, genius of French cinema, who died tragically at the age of 29. The late James Agee wrote of the 45-minute film about conflicts in a boys' school that "nothing so adventurous in terms of pure movie expressiveness has been made since."

There will be two showings of each complete program: one at 7 p.m., the other at 9. Reservations must be picked up at the college by 5 p.m. of the day of showing. Some non-reserved seats will be available. There is no charge for admission.

Symphony Season Opens 23 October

An all-orchestral program featuring the works of Wagner, Debussy and Brahms will lead off the Monterey County Symphony's 1962-63 season on 23 October. The concert will be given in Sunset Auditorium beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Scheduled for performance that evening will be Wagner's Prelude to Die Meistersinger, Brahms' Symphony No. 2, and Debussy's The Afternoon of a Faun. The Debussy work has been programmed in honor of the Debussy Centennial celebration this year.

Conductor John Gosling, who won widespread acclaim in his first season with the orchestra, will again be on the podium. In addition to the first concert, Mr. Gosling has programmed concerts of equal interest for the remainder of the series.

To be heard this season are the works of Beethoven, Brahms, Ravel, Saint-Saens, and Honneger as well as soloists David Abel, Jean Casadesus, Myron MacTavish, Kathryn Thompson and the Hartnell Community Chorus.

Season tickets as well as single seats for the opening concert are now on sale at the Browse Around Music Shop in Carmel.

Symphony Groups Amalgamate

The Monterey County Symphony Association and the Peninsula and Salinas chapters of the Symphony Guild have consolidated, according to Fletcher Dutton, president of the association.

The action was taken last week at a special membership meeting of the symphony association when members voted an amendment to their bylaws which enables the guild chapters to become working units of the association.

Mrs. Frank G. Ringland, president of the Peninsula guild, and speaking for the Salinas chapter of the guild stated, "It is a great privilege to have a part in this forward step, whereby the guilds, although preserving their autonomy, can work in complete harmony and accord with the symphony association to facilitate the development and expansion of our orchestra."

Mr. Dutton, speaking in behalf of the symphony association, said, "This revision of by-laws which consolidates the efforts of the symphony association aid guilds, will immeasurably improve the technical operation of the organization. We hope thereby to increase the administrative efficiency of the symphony to a level which will match the artistic excellence already achieved by the orchestra under the dynamic leadership of conductor John Gosling."

Guild Preview Tea

The Monterey County Symphony Guild will hold its first Preview Tea of the 1962-63 season on Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the parish hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church.

John Gosling, symphony conductor, will discuss the program for the 23 October concert, also other music planned for this season. Guest artist will be Wade Parks, pianist.

Mr. Parks, a Peninsula resident, studied with Leo Podolsky, Rudolph Ganz, and Mollie Margolies. He was granted a B.A. degree in music by the Chicago Musical College and an M.A. by the University of Southern California. He has been a soloist with the county symphony on several occasions.

Mrs. Burton Doolittle is the guild's hospitality chairman this year and will arrange all preview teas. Mrs. Howard A. Bowman is program chairman. Mrs. D. MacMillan Kerr, in charge of the tea, has asked other past presidents of the guild to assist her at the tea table Tuesday.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

A book which reads like an espionage novel is OPERATION BERNARD by Anthony Pirie. It seems that in the early months of World War II the Germans decided that one way to undermine their adversaries was to ruin them economically. Therefore they caused to be printed over a million pounds in counterfeit English notes. The notes were so well done that they were accepted by banks everywhere, even the Bank of England. The man in charge of the production was Bernard Kruger. In 1945 it was suddenly necessary to destroy the counterfeiting equipment and a huge supply of the notes. This was done by sinking them in a lake in Austria. The whole affair came to light in time and the water-soaked notes were recovered. Operation Bernard is well written and good reading.

When Louise Dickinson Rich took to the woods over twenty years ago she created for herself and her books an audience of unflagging attention anl interest. Her latest book is entitled THE NATURAL WORLD OF LOUISE DICKINSON RICH. Here is a woman who lived in the woods and enjoyed her close association with the animals who were her neighbors. She writes with sympathy and understanding. The drawings which illustrate the book were well done by Margaret Cosgrove. It is a privilege to venture into the world of nature with Louise Rich as guide.

Frances Parkinson Keyes has written the life stories of two South American saints of the Catholic Church. They are Saint Rose of Lima and Saint Marian of Quito. The book is entitled THE ROSE AND THE LILY.

Ralph Moody has a string of successful books to his credit, all warmly human and worthwhile. Some are for children, some are for adults, and some are for both kinds of people just so long as they like a good story. His latest is called SHAKING THE NICKEL BUSH and is another segment of Moody's life story which he began writing with his very popular Little Britches. And in case you are interested, Ralph Moody is a trustee of the Burlingame Public Library and is very active in library circles in California. His son, Charles Moody, is a teacher at Carmel High School.

We risked a small sum on the stock market this week, about eight dollars, and with it we purchased a book by a San Francisco man named Rosenberg. The book is entitled THE STOCK MARKET PRIMER, and that is as close to actually risking money on the market as we ever get. Aside from its size, the biggest thing about this book is that it contains a Compounding Growth Guide. By following this guide you will be able to figure when and what to buy or sell. The author teaches courses in marketing and finance in the adult school in the city.

And finally we have two books which seem to make a congenial group, somehow. The first one in many ways is by Dorothy Baruch and Hyman Miller and is entitled SEX IN MARRIAGE, NEW UNDERSTANDING. The two authors are a husband-and-wife team who live in Los Angeles and practice clinical psychology and medicine. This good book will be shelved at the desk. The second book is called THE DIVORCE HANDBOOK and it was written by Florence Haussamen and Mary Anne Guitar. They tell us that each year 350,000 Americans are divorced and many thousands more contemplate divorce but do not know the problems involved nor the steps to take. This book will answer many questions, and help people to think through the problems divorce brings.

There are seven new novels.

Red Cross Commends Youth Volunteers

For the third consecutive year, students in the community served during their summer vacation as youth volunteers with the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross.

After a period of orientation and training, the young people undertook specific duties in the clinics, on the wards and in the recreation programs at the U.S. Army Hospital at Fort Ord, worked in the chapter office, drove the chapter station wagon, assisted with the mentally retarded children at Children's House. Many served in dual or triple capacities.

In August the chapter sent six students, Gwen McEwen, Kathleen Goulding, Deanna Johnson, Martha Campbell, James Purvis and Jeff McKenna, to San Jose to spend the day with ten of the 140 foreign students who were traveling and studying in the United States as guests of the National Red Cross and the various chapters.

During the week of 12-17 August, Kathleen Goulding and James Purvis attended the Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Center. Kathy Goulding's name was later submitted by the director of the center as a nominee for the Pacific Area Youth Advisory Council.

According to Mrs. Blair McDonald, chairman of the Junior Red Cross and educational relations, "the youth volunteers have made a very real contribution of service. They have met the challenge of submerging their own individualities in service to their fellow men and community with admirable spirit and enthusiasm."

UNITED CHURCH WOMEN

Welfare project of United Church Women of the Monterey Peninsula is the making of sewing bags for women of the underprivileged areas of Southeast Asia, to be completed this month. The bags, of stout cotton material, should be approximately eight by eleven inches, opening on the long side for heading and drawstring. Bags are to be filled with six spools of thread, two papers of needles, scissors, tape measure, snaps, buttons, binding tape, and, if desired, crochet cotton and hook. However, these latter articles can be paid for by the women's organizations. Also simple clothes for young boys and girls may be made, as there is great need for them. Outfits should be of stout material, with pajama-style legs and mandarin coat.

These articles are to be taken to the Church of the Wayfarer on Friday, 2 November, for the observance of World Community Day, a meeting held throughout the country by U.C.W. Groups as well as individual women are working on the project. The meeting will begin at 10:30, with luncheon served at noon by Wayfarer Circle 2, for which reservations must be made.

Stock Market Analysis

By John Gates

THE DOW-JONES THEORY

In looking at the day-to-day stock market averages, how is it possible to predict the future trend of the market?

Too many forces affect the market to permit an absolute prediction. Political as well as economic conditions must be taken into consideration.

However, certain theories have been evolved through observing the action of the market over a long period of time. One of the most prominent of these theories is the Dow-Jones theory.

The basic assumption of the Dow-Jones theory is that the action of the stock market is comparable to the action of the waves of the sea.

If one were to stand by the sea shore and observe the action of the waves, he would see that there is a regularity about the tide and the waves. Each wave would come in and then recede. On an incoming tide each succeeding wave would come in a little farther. When the tide was moving out, each wave would drop a little farther back.

The Dow-Jones theorists chart the action of the market in just this way. They chart the day-to-day action of the market until a pattern is formed. Then, if one peak of the curve in the chart is a little higher than the previous peak, they conclude that the tide is coming in; that is, the market is in an uptrend. Conversely, if each succeeding peak is a little lower, the tide is running out.

Just as one wave will not tell the direction of the tide, so one day's change in the market will not tell whether the trend is up or down. Therefore, the Dow-Jones theory cannot guarantee to give an indication of the exact point at which the top of the market is reached. All that it claims to do is tell when the trend is changing or has changed.

While the theory is not absolute, it has become recognized as a fairly competent guide to some investors. Also, there are many refinements of the theory that chartists apply, such as the relationship of the action of the railroad stocks to industrial stocks and utilities.

Whether one subscribes to the chartists' theories or not, he still has to choose stocks of good progressive companies to be a successful investor.

DEER

Fish and Game contends that all of the controlled antlerless deer hunts in Monterey and San Luis Obispo counties are going smoothly. On Hunter Liggett, 359 hunters have taken 322 deer in the first two of four week-end hunting periods. The Indian Valley hunt has been completed, with 359 hunters taking 327 deer.

On 12 October, two three-day hunts begin on the Botts Bros. and the Aurignac ranches.

Sport Cars

BY ED LESLIE

Sports Car Racing's "Big Month" in the United States is about half over. The Canadian race at Mosport (that's East coast), then the Seattle Grand Prix for Sports Cars are just over. This past week end the U.S. Grand Prix for the open wheel Formula 1 cars was held at Bridgehampton, New York. A great deal of healthy American dollars have been put up as prize money and somehow this is attractive to the drivers from both Europe and America. Strangely too, the fact that these famous drivers are coming to race here attracts great crowds of people who in turn supply the many dollars for the prize money. Personally, I always seem to recall a hideous thought that I had years ago, before the first Laguna Seca Race — What if it rains? The cars would race at Laguna, certainly, but no one could get in to see the race. I'm sure Mr. Plummer and SCRAMP will insure that we have no rain. Should it rain, and if everything else went wrong, too, we'd probably see the first case in history where a bank took over an Army post!

Back to better things. Masten Gregory you should know. He is an American driver who has long lived in Europe and who will be down at Riverside this week end, and here at Laguna next week end. He drives a light green (Moss Green) Lotus 19 for the U.D.T.-Laystall team from England. He and his mechanic are traveling in the team Rosebud Van. Rosebud has a Lotus 19, light metallic blue, for Innes Ireland to drive. Mr. Ireland is quite spectacular and apparently very fast, especially when things don't go his way. I was very impressed by Masten Gregory's use of the brakes on entering turns. You watch him out here!

Next Lotus 19 is the tan one Dan Gurney drives for Arciero Bros. Dan is so smooth and easy that he doesn't look fast at all. He just gets there first. He often uses the short line around sharp corners (as Moss did) and is deceptively quick. These 19s are very brittle and may be "pretty-soon-broke," so watch them first.

To me, the Brabham entry of a little 900-lb. Lotus 23 is most exciting. The English call it "little boat," and it is a 2-seat rear engine little airfoil that handles like a Formula Jr. Disc brakes and 13-inch Dunlop rain tires make it amazing on the turns. Jack's has a 1500cc engine and will have over 125 hp! Pat Pigott, who drives a Jr. for the Rosebud team, owns a 1500cc Ford engined Lotus 23 and will run also. I just don't see anyone beating Pat unless they have plenty of power. So watch the little 23s!

At Seattle, Pete Lovely drove another 23 for its owner and if he drives here it should be interesting. Laguna favors small cars and cornering ability, so I expect some unusual finishing orders. I can't get excited about the Coopers this year although Allen Connel (accent the "el") has a 2.7 litre Cooper Monaco that has been in the first three twice when mechanical bothers stopped it. Of course, McClaren has his car right from John Cooper and he should finish third overall. The best man into a corner and in using brakes on a sports car is Walt Hansgen from New York. He'll be driving what Cunningham enters and if it's Maserati it might not handle well enough; but it could be something else. Then watch him at turn four and at turn seven!

You will enjoy the sound of the new flat 8 cyl. Porsche to be driven by Jo Bonnier. He has not been turning the engine very high so far, and its performance is still debatable. Remember that, after following Billy Krause at Seattle, he suddenly squirted by on the last lap with a very sudden burst of power.

The Birdcages will be here, but even with Krause, I don't expect them to run out front. Laguna has been a bit hard on them before, and after running at Riverside this week, some cars will be a bit tired for a hard drive.

Porsche RS model cars will abound, and it should be a terrific problem for them all to qualify in the under 2 litre class. Don Wester will be up against Bob Holbert, one of the best, and they'll both be fighting off the Vasek Polak entries from Los Angeles, and Ken Miles (if he drives the Rs instead of the newly-acquired Bill Harrah Ferrari coupe).

In Chevvy-powered specials anything can happen. Four I'll mention as having chassis and drivers to use the power. Dave McDonald is from Los Angeles in the 00 that looks like a Corvette body, but is all out racing car. Dave has shown them all the way around, but has not completed the events lately. My favorite, from Yakima, is one Lew Florence, with a huge yellow Lister-Corvette that just came in third at Seattle. He generally finishes, and watching him corner is an education. Stan Burnett from Seattle has built his own car and it handles very well. I'm not going to mention the fourth person's name. That way a lot of friends will think that it most certainly will be them.

Now, Riverside is this week end, the new course is much shorter down the straight, and we'll watch closely and try to report back next week before Laguna Seca. Hope it doesn't rain, Jim!

JV'S BIND BALERS 18-7

The JV Padres smashed the Hollister Haybalers last Saturday by a score of 18-7.

There was no scoring until the second quarter. Then Al Nishimura started things going by completing a short pass to Steve Johnson. This pass TD occurred just three seconds after the beginning of the second quarter. The conversion was not made. Next the Carmel defense, much of whose fine action was due to Jim Amos and Bill Stowers, succeeded in forcing the 'Balers into a fourth down kicking situation. Ralph Juarez ran the ball 55 yards for a touchdown. The blocking for this run was well executed, as Ralph met with little resistance. Again the conversion point was missed. Juarez kicked the TD kick-off and tackled the Hollister ball-carrier. Once again the Padres struck, and once again on a fourth down punt situation. This time, Juarez ran 45 yards for the TD. The conversion attempt failed and the score at the end of the first half was 18-0.

The third quarter showed a great effort on the part of the Hollister coach to bail out his 'Balers. Our defense, which for some reason was not playing well at all, was able to hold back the rally, although much yardage was lost. Then, in the fourth quarter, after Fred Gehring made a life-saving interception, Hollister scored their only touchdown, on a 50-yard run. The extra point was made, and 18-7 remained the final score.

The next JV game will be at Gilroy, 12 October, at 6 p.m.

VARSITY EDGES HOLLISTER 7-0

The Varsity football squad, captained by Bart Whelan and Clayton Hilbert, beat the Hollister team last Saturday by the narrow score of 7-0. The score was a repeat of last week's score of Carmel 7-Gonzales 0. The game was played mostly in the air, with Danny Holman and Jim Kelley forming the most successful of the passer-receiver combination.

In the first quarter, Terry Bishop took the kick-off and made some headway down the field. Unfortunately, he received little blocking. Dennis Hermanson and John "J.T." Thomas took turns running the ball, but no worthwhile ground was gained. Then Holman found success with a pass to Kelley, and another to Phil Zobel, and the remainder of the game was mostly sky-high.

In the second quarter, Holman completed several short passes to Kelley. This put the Padres in a scoring position, and Bishop carried the ball over the line for six points. Grant Pollock, the up-and-coming part-time center and part-time place kicker, successfully kicked the ball for the extra point.

The remainder of the game was spent in short passes and even shorter runs. Danny Holman, although thrown for losses several times, showed remarkable skill as a quarterback, completing nine out of 16 passes.

The finals on the game were as follows: For Hollister—rushing, 47 yards; passing, 49 yards, six completed for thirteen tries, with three interceptions; four first downs; 40 yards against them in penalties; and one unrecovered fumble. For Carmel—rushing, 74 yards; passing, 77 yards, nine completed for sixteen tries with no interceptions; a loss of 20 yards due to penalties; and one unrecovered fumble.

Next Friday, 12 October, the Padres will play the Gilroy team, Rooters' bus tickets will be on sale during the week for 75 cents.

Almost every home "leaks" heat—honest Injun! ■ Some heat slips through loose-fitting doors and windows. About 16% is lost through window glass. And up to 45% escapes through uninsulated ceilings! ■ By weather-stripping and insulating now, you can prevent much of your heat loss during the winter months ahead. By keeping draperies drawn and the fireplace damper closed, you can stop still more heat loss. ■ This way you'll have a warm, wonderful wigwam every winter . . . and save heating dollars, too!

Community Chest Past Halfway Mark

Carmel has passed the halfway mark in reaching its 1962 Community Chest goal.

Collected so far is $18,574 of a quota of $34,000, or representing 56 per cent of the total amount. On the Peninsula the total is 37 per cent ($63,000) of an over-all quota of $166,500.

In charge of Carmel's business solicitation is Kurt J. Koebig. He is being assisted by several volunteers. Working in the residential areas are Mrs. J. B. Wickham, Mrs. Richard Bell, Mrs. John T. Cantbell, Mrs. Robert Newton, Mrs. L. Bruce Meyer, Mrs. DeForest Sweeney, and Mrs. George Thaler.

Fifteen agencies are represented by the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest. Of the money collected, 99 per cent is spent on the Peninsula.

Fairgrounds Concert

A versatile group of concert entertainers, the Dungill Family, will give a performance at the Monterey County Fairgrounds on 18 October at 8 p.m., sponsored by the Christian Leadership Training School of the Ocean View Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Dungill and their six children make up the family ensemble company. Each is a musician and singer. Their varied program consists of songs from many nations presented with special arrangements and musical effects.

Instruments played by the group include trumpet, tuba, trombone, vibra-harp and drums. Mr. Dungill is the director and pianist. Tickets may be obtained in Carmel at the Central Box Office.

Toys Needed

The Monterey Peninsula Christmas Bureau is appealing to Carmel residents for donations of used toys which may be repaired and otherwise readied for distribution to needy families at Christmas time.

Dolls are especially desired. The Carmel Woman's Club has been dressing dolls for the bureau and will continue this work if more dolls are received within the next few weeks. Servicemen stationed at the U.S. Naval Facility in Monterey will repair and refurbish wheeled vehicles. The bureau will apreciate further volunteer help for other projects.

All repairable toys may be taken to the Carmel firehouse, pick-up station for this community

The toys are distributed by the bureau at Christmas time to families recommended by the Family Service Agency.

Mrs. Mark Thomas of Carmel Valley is the president of the Christmas Bureau. Mrs. Marjorie Gless of Carmel is secretary, and local persons who are members of the bureau's board of directors include Mrs. William Barthold, Mrs. William Godwin, and Fred Stanley.

El Camino Real will have 100 exact duplicates of the original bell markers installed early next year, in commemoration of the 250th anniversary of the birth of Father Junipero Serra, Jack Dougherty of Monterey, director of California Mission Trails Association, has announced.

Success of the bell project has been assured in a statement by T. Fred Bagshaw, assistant director of the State Department of Public Works, that the state would accept the responsibility for installation and maintenance of the pipe standards, bells and signs, as soon as the bells are delivered by the Committee for El Camino Real.

Organizations represented on the committee, in addition to Mission Trails, are the California Historical Society, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, Franciscan Fathers of California, and Daughters of the American Revolution and affiliates.

Two original Camino Real bells have been installed in Carmel; one privately, at the corner of Thirteenth and Camino Real; the other, by the city, near Carmel Mission Basilica.

Where There's Life

By Andre Hope

Are you a victim of Fall fever? My mother insists that I am one, mostly because I maintained friendly relationships with football teams in my formative years. At one time I was tutoring a section of the USC gridders in English and brought them home on week ends. She listened to the groaning boards of floor and table and peeked with apprehension at our sagging furniture. Finally, she wondered wistfully if I knew any male who weighed less than 225 pounds—like, perhaps, a 200-pound runt of the litter? I reminded her of her Tulane Varsity and we swiftly changed to other subjects.

These mellow days my passions change to baking apples, broiling fresh lobster and taking another flyer at meat loaf (more about the latter later). I am also inclined to wandering; for instance, this week end past. We meandered up the Carmel Valley for dinner at Reuben's. Though their menu includes many good things, the house specialty is prime rib—and it should be. Together with this excellent cut we had an impeccable salad, a chilled stack of relishes and a stuffed baked potato for which I would like the recipe. Later enjoyed the show at the Tantamount Theatre. Always like their unusual presentations, but simply enjoying the theatre itself is a treat. I believe this is truly one of the loveliest small theatres I have ever seen: watching a play there is something like browsing at Tiffany's. Especially with such performances as we saw by co-owners, managers and directors, Francois Martin and John Ralph Geddis, also Jacklyn and Gene Cornelius.

So, up the Valley and down the Coast. Sunday, after a surfeit of four comic strips and attached stark news (so who's to say you can't have dessert first?) we took the long, languorous trip through the late afternoon for sunset apertifs at Rocky Point; drams and dreaming at Nepenthe (not really a place but a state of mind). Dinner there by candle and firelight and light-hearted friendship, set to music.

AND THEN COMES MONDAY (OOG!) MORNING! But it is Fall—remember? So, get all the work out of the way as soon as possible — and what's for dinner? Well, you have to go down to the Wharf and visit Marty's Liberty Fish Market for a brace of live lobster, don't you? It's such a free-swinging day — seals barking at the breakwater, other runaways testing their sails against the sea, and maybe just a brief stop at Angelo's, which stretches on as you sample the cracked crab and steamed clams with perhaps a bottle of chilled chablis. I remember with sadness a rancher in the San Joaquin Valley who told me he had never seen a sea gull. There was a nice, young, sun-bleached boy fishing from the pier. We watched him. He caught only one small fish, which he threw back. I liked his patience and the fact that he, too, was dreaming. Finally, he caught his leader on a bumper tire under the pier, went down to release it and sat, swinging, forgetting why he had gone there in the first place. He was looking down through the water and imagining. I liked him for that. So many of us just sit there and wonder. I didn't ask his name. A: it was a school day. B: I like to think of him as many boys, not just one. We dreamers stick together.

Meat loaf? (Remember, back there at the beginning?) Next week a contest will be announced.

This week? Visitors say, "We know you have these big events, but what do you do with yourselves between times?" Live, my friends; as witness one beautiful vignette in the Fall.

DESERT SAND STORM

Dust spins out nets of saffron
In kites of wind
And the hard trail softens.
Distant mountains now loom
Like smudged water colors
Against a gunmetal sky.
We pass through spilled sun and wind's iron belling
Lost except for branched Joshua trees
Armored in dust that mark almost obliterated ways.
Suddenly, with the dark, the sand curtain pulls aside
And we see a crystal of stars and a curved moon rising.

CALIFORNIA NIGHT

What incense breathes such perilous sweetness now
Exhaling on this air? No flowers of earth
But fragrance borne afar from Paradise
Night holds the youny moon, a pale golden flower
Softly to her dark breast, ablaze with stars,
And now, from the tall eucalyptus near,
A mocking bird pours forth his tremulous song,
As if the beauty round
Had blossomed in that sound,
Across the sleeping meadows, hushed and still,
Once more the thrill
Of those clear notes is heard,
An angel? or a bird?
Ah surely, here
God planted Eden once again, that man
Might find the healing of beauty freely given,
And know a foretaste of the joys of heaven.

Audubon Society

The following calendar of events for October has been planned by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society.

Charles T. Hotchkiss will present Teton Trails in Sunset School auditorium tomorrow at 8 p.m. This will be the first in a series of Audubon wildlife films sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, the Carmel Adult School and the National Audubon Society. Both season and single admission tickets may be purchased at the door preceding the program.

Because of conflict between the regular monthly meeting date and that of the wildlife film, a short meeting will be held on Saturday, following a 5 p.m. picnic supper at the Hatton Ranch, 200 Calera Canyon Road, Corral de Tierra.

The ranch may be reached by taking the Monterey-Salinas highway and turning south on the Corral de Tierra road (at the Shell Service Station). The Calera Canyon road joins this road at the first intersection of roads. The ranch is at the end of the Calera Canyon road. The get-together invitation has been extended by Louise Hatton and will be an opportunity to listen to the voices of nocturnal birds. On warm autumn evenings, especially when the moon is full, the calls of owls and poor-wills are at their best. Those who plan to attend are asked to bring a picnic supper and join the Owl Prowl.

The bird-a-month section is held on the third Wednesday of each month. On 17 October, persons interested in identifying shore birds are invited to meet at Highway One and Jetty Road, north of Moss Landing, at 9:30 a.m.

The Santa Cruz Bird Club will hold a field trip at the McCrary Ranch north of Santa Cruz on 20 October. Meeting place will be at Waddell Beach on Highway One at 9 a.m.

The Carmel River will be explored on 28 October. Meeting place will be the parking lot at the mouth of the river, near Carmelo Street, at 9 a.m. Milton Frinke of Point Lobos State Park will lead the trip.

For more information telephone Captain Elgin Hurlbert, president, FR 2-2278.

Wildlife Film

The magnificent Teton Range which lifts abruptly from a valley to a height of over 7,000 feet, and borders Jackson Hole, Wyoming, provides a striking backdrop for Teton Trails, colorful film produced and narrated by Charles T. Hotchkiss of Homestead, Florida. This film will be presented tomorrow at Sunset Auditorium at 8 p.m. by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and the Carmel Adult School.

Mr. Hotchkiss creates a panorama of the past, present and future of this western territory in Teton Trails. He follows the many animals, large and small, who forged the first trails into this isolated valley; visits Indian villages and examines artifacts of the tribes that spent their summers hunting and fishing in the shadows of the Tetons. The proud history of this land reveals stories of mountian men, gold miners and settlers who in turn followed these trails seeking fortunes and futures.

A dramatic and fitting climax to the film is the climbing of the Grand Teton, the highest peak of this range. The climb requires about 2,000 feet of rope work, and there are many exciting and thrilling moments.

Charles Hotchkiss studied forestry and wildlife management at the University of Connecticut, then became a physical training instructor during his term in the military service. In 1948 he graduated from the University of Illinois with a master's degree in physical education. He later studied park recreation at Colorado Agricultural and Mechanical College. His interest in recreation and wildlife management finally led him into the National Park Service. For seven years he held positions as seasonal ranger and seasonal ranger-naturalist at Grand Teton, Mt. McKinley and Everglades National parks.

Dale Leidigs' Anniversary

On 9 October, 1937, Virginia and Dale Leidig were married in Pasadena. On Tuesday, their twenty-fifth anniversary, Dale's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leidig, gave a family dinner party in their honor, which included Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Leidig, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Leidig (Dale's and Virginia's son and daughter-in law), Marilyn, McRill (Mrs. Brian Leidig's sister), and Robert Leidig.

This week end the Leidigs' daughter, Margaret, will give a party for her mother and father at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, her mother's parents.

Laidlaw Williamses Are Back

Boz Williams, a student at the University of California at Berkeley, was at the San Francisco Airport, by prearrangement, Thursday evening at 6:30, with the family car, to meet his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams, who were jetting from Boston after nearly four months at their summer home near Baddeck, Nova Scotia. But the Williamses weren't on the plane, and after waiting a reasonable time, Boz left a message to have them paged, and returned to Berkeley.

The Williamses, who had been transferred to another jet because of some confusion about Sunday schedules, finally arrived two hours later. Of course Boz wasn't there; neither was a message from the paging service, which had evidently given them up. Telephone Berkeley? No; Boz had no phone as yet. But they needed the family car to drive to Carmel in. The only way out of this dilemma appeared to be a taxi ride to Berkeley. "After a quick jet flight from the East, all this seemed a little involved," Mr. Williams told the Pine Cone, "but we finally made connections with Boz and the car, spent the night in Berkeley, and drove home on Friday."

The Williamses' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Meyers, are at present en route by car to California with their two small children, Cynthia and Nat. They plan to settle in the San Francisco Bay area, and next semester Harvey will enroll at the University of California. He has been studying at St. John's College, Annapolis, Maryland, and this summer took a course in short story writing at the Harvard University summer school under writer John Updike, an "excellent and stimulating teacher," according to Harvey.

Burrills Move To Los Altos

The Reverend and Mrs. Charles H. Burrill, who have made their home in Carmel for the past 13 years, living at Lincoln Street and Eleventh Avenue across the street from their son-in-law and daughter, the Reverend and Mrs. K. Filmore Gray, will move to Los Altos on Friday.

A retired American Baptist minister, the Reverend Burrill and his wife will live at Pilgrim Haven in Los Altos. Fortunately, this is not too far from Carmel, and a glimpse during vacation times of their two grandsons, Stephen, in his second year at the University of the Pacific, studying pharmacology, and Stanton, a junior at Wasatch Academy, Mt. Pleasant, Utah.

Sandra Sue Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Stolich of Pebble Beach have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Sue, and Benjamin N. Brown, Jr., of New York.

Art Perilous On Maine Dragger

Postmarked Morehead City, North Carolina, a letter from Dr. Russell Williams describes a voyage he, painter Richard Lofton and Philip C. Smith have undertaken along the waterways of the southeastern coast. Skipper Smith owns the 40-foot "Maine dragger," a former fishing vessel now fitted out as a pleasure craft, and the mariners recently flew East to board her and set out from Norfolk, Virginia, in the general direction of Miami, Florida.

Dr. Williams writes: "We are southwest of Cape Hatteras, moving from bay to bay, up one river into a canal, down the next river to a bay. We cruise at 7-8 knots, past red and black markers, some with flashing lights. In and out of rain squalls, through beautiful green marshes and pine forests when the ground rises a bit.

"Inside Cape Hatteras there were still 25 miles of open water to the east of us and it was decently rough. Everything was battened down in the galley (Dr. Williams is cook) except a box of eggs I had perched on top of beer cans in the icebox; it came crashing down, with the well-known result.

"Lofton paints on the after deck. While setting the automatic compass this morning, some confusion arose because there are controls above and in the deckhouse; Smith finally came down and started pushing buttons—I was literally at sea—and the boat began to circle wildly. Lofton and easel were both overthrown — paint from hell to breakfast. However, he was undaunted, and produced a masterpiece this afternoon."

Mr. Lofton will leave the boat at Beaufort, South Carolina, where he has a portrait commission to fulfill, as well as in Cumberland and College Park, Maryland, and in Birmingham, Alabama. He and Dr. Williams will be back in Carmel at the end of the month; but Mr. Smith may take his boat as far as the Bahamas.

Visitors From Calgary

Recently visiting Carmel for the first time, and entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Herron, were Captain and Mrs. John Davison of Calgary, Canada. Mrs. Davison's mother, Mrs. Harry Jennings, also of Calgary, is an old friend of the Herrons, and visited Carmel in 1934, just before her marriage to Dr. Jennings.

While he was here, Captain Davison, a member of the Queen's Own Buffs, oldest British infantry regiment (organized in 1572), explained to the Pine Cone that "Buffs" refers to the color of the untanned leather jackets originally worn by the regiment. He also revealed the lighter side of British Army life with this anecdote: stationed near Stonehenge in England, he and two other high-spirited young lieutenants decided to liven up a meeting of the Druid Society, which practiced black magic, to be held at Stonehenge. In the course of the meeting, or seance, the lid of a black coffin was to be opened, thus permitting an ostensibly invisible something to emerge. The three young officers dashed up to London; purchased, for 200 pounds, a gorilla; transported it to Stonehenge; succeeded in transferring it to the coffin — which in due time was opened. "The meeting rapidly broke up," concluded Captain Davison, "but the gorilla escaped. We later decided that 200 pounds was a deucedly expensive joke."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Man's dominion over everything that would alienate him from God, good, will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science services.

Paul's healing ministry will be featured in the Bible readings. The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" will include Paul's words to the Romans: "For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

This correlative citation will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 303): "When the evidence before the material senses yielded to spiritual sense, the apostle declared that nothing could alienate him from God, from the sweet sense and presence of Life and Truth."

The San Francisco Players Guild is sponsoring a contest to discover new plays suitable for production by this professional children's theatre group. Awards include: $500 first prize; $250 second prize; $100 third prize. Also prize - winning plays will be offered to publishers.

Deadline for submission of entries in the contest is 15 April, 1963. Plays may be originals, adaptations or translations. Production time must not exceed 55 minutes.

Collaborations will be acceptable provided the collaborators state in an entry application that division, if any, of prize money has been agreed upon. Music, dances and songs may include original compositions suited to the play submitted. Music, also, may be designated or left to the choice of the Players Guild.

All plays entered in the contest should be written to appeal to children six through 12 years of age with parts for the six professional members of the Guild's company, three men and three women. Halle Observes Bank Anniversary

Arne F. Halle, vice president and manager of Crocker-Anglo National Bank's Carmel office, has observed the anniversary of his 35th year in banking.

A native of Denmark, Halle grew up in British Columbia and attended high school in the San Francisco Bay area. He joined the Bank of Carmel in 1927 and was that institution's vice president and cashier when it became part of the Crocker-Anglo system in September, 1959, when he was named to his current position.

During World War II, Halle spent four years with the 894th Signal Corps, including a year and a half in India.

He holds an honorary membership in the Kiwanis Club of Carmel and an honorary life membership in the Carmel Art Association. In addition, he is a member of the Rotary Club, the Disabled Officers Association and the American Federation of Arts.

He has served as treasurer and a director of the Carmel American Red Cross chapter; as a Community Chest committee member; as a director of the Carmel Youth Center, the Carmel Foundation, and as chairman of the P-TA Scholarship Fund.

Tax Vote Set

Snyder, the hardmoney man of the board, hammered away at the suave inclination of the administration to leave the decisions to the board. "What do you feel is necessary to provide an education program similar to this year and last?" he asked.

"That's essentially what this is," was the response, referring to the budget as submitted.

"Is it?" Snyder retorted. "I wouldn't know."

He was getting nowhere, but he continued: "To be blunt, I don't think in the last several years we have particularly improved our education program."

Nobody gainsaid him. And nobody proposed any changes in the budgets. Getting nowhere determinedly, he observed that, between 1962 and 1965, the increase was expected to be only 39 students; and yet, the budget was swarming upwards.

It was apparent that neither on the board nor within the administration was anyone prepared to do battle or take exception. Obviously a mood of pained resignation was going to prevail—though what such an attitude would do in support of an imperative position in the presentation of the override tax case next February could be the subject of trenchant speculation.

Though Snyder was opposed to acceptance of some of the fiscal rationalization that the Captain Cooper School District could be absorbed under cost standards different from those prevailing within the Carmel district, he eventually moved adoption of the resolution approving the annexation of the beleaguered district. What happens to the Palo Colorado District, shorn of the support of the Captain Cooper was viewed sympathetically but not positively by the board.

18 November was tentatively set for the dedication of the junior high school, provided that the prodigious problems of the dedicatory plaque and the completion of the landscaping do not embarrass the date.

Dr. Haasis Teaches At Sixth Grade Camp

Sixth grade students at Sunset, River and Carmelo schools will spend a week camping in the Santa Cruz mountains starting on 29 October when the first classes, accompanied by their teachers, leave for Redwood Glen Camp to take part in the Tri-County Science-Conservation Education program.

At the camp they will find Dr. Ferdinand Haasis, a Carmel resident, who is one of the camp's staff teachers. Dr. Haasis, retired from the California State Division of Forestry, brings to his new work with children a wealth of knowledge of the outdoors. He has a doctor's degree in plant physiology from John Hopkins University, has published scientific articles. He is an artist, too.

For many years, he and Mrs. Haasis spent several months each year at the Sid Ormsbee Fire Control Lookout maintained by the Division of Forestry in Carmel Valley. During the fire season, the Haasises lived on top of the flat-top mountain above Robinson Canyon in the white tower which is clearly visible from Carmel.

FULMER-TIGER FIGHT ON CLOSED CABLE TV

An exclusive, closed circuit screening of the middleweight championship fight between champion Gene Fulmer and challenger Dic Tiger, slated for Candlestick Park next Tuesday night (if the rains, the Giants and Yankees aren't still occupying the place,) will be shown on MPTV's cable 3.

This fight will not be broadcast on commercial TV, and Carmel will be one of the few places it can be seen. Screen time should be about 7 p.m.

Rapid Delivery—A customer went into the Derek Rayne shop to order some T-shirts, since everything he had was of the Marlon Brando model. "We're out of your size, I'm sorry to say," sorrowed Derek," but they're on order from New York. It usually takes about ten days."

The customer left, went to his office, sat down at his desk. The phone rang. "Your T-shirts have arrived," announced Derek with poise, detachment, reserve and unbounded pride.

It is a new customer service, it seems, and has something to do with Cape Canaveral. "Shirra's eight orbits make instant suit delivery a distinct possibility," murmured Derek. "Something we have not been able to promise heretofore."
